AN ORGAN MANUFACTORY IN COLUMBUS.—Columbus has taken another step forward in the way of enterprise. Mr. Albert Gemunder, of New York City, whose record as a mechanician and artist is number one has been induced by the representations o some of our prominent citizens to establish in Columbus a factory for the manufacture of Church Pipe Organs. He has leased the old church building on Sixth street, between State and Town streets which, for the time being, will be known as the Columbus Pipe Organ Factory. Mr Gemunder has orders for two large organs to commence with; one for the German Independent Church on Mound street, and the other for Mr. John Seltzer's music rooms at his residence on the corner of Oak and Sixth streets. As many of our churches are not supplied with organs, other orders will without doubt follow, and the Columbus Organ Manufactory become a fixed fact. Mr. G. is a graduate of one of the largest organ factories in Europe, is one of the most competent organ builders in the country, and can but succeed.
