IS THIS WISE?

The La Moure Chronicle calls attention to the following very peculiar situation as regards passenger fares: Passengers from LaMoure to points in Minnesota are just "getting well-wised" to the peculiar workings out of the 2-cent fare but recently declared legal in Minnesota. It costs $2.20 to go from LaMoure to Fargo. From Fargo you can buy a ticket over any road to Minneapolis for $4.65. This fare is based upon the Great Northern trackage which happens to have the shortest line from Fargo to Minneapolis-230 miles or $4.60 worth of transportation, which price competing lines have to meet. Then they charge 5 cents to carry you over to Moor—, we mean across the Red river, which makes the total fare $4.65 from Fargo to Minneapolis, and $6.85 from La-Moure to Minneapolis. But purchasing a ticket straight through from La-Moure to Minneapolis it costs you $8.05, or $1.20 more than the two ticket procedure. In other words the 2-cent rate in Minnesota is a state "af-fare" and doesn't cover interstate commerce. Hence unless the traveler is "wised up" to this peculiar arrangement, the railroad gets the rakeoff, and can do it with impunity, too, for it is entirely "within the law" as we are informed by a local attorney, Funny, "ain't it?"

Yes, that is funny. It's a good joke -maybe. But, in all frankness, what are the railroads thinking of to try and "put over" anything like that on the public.

Here's the situation. North Dakota has a 21/2-cent fare law. Minnesota has a 2-cent law. The man traveling in this state cannot be charged more than 21/2 cents per mile. The man traveling in Minnesota cannot be charged more than 2 cents a mile. But the moment a man travels without a stop from one point in North Dakota to a point in Minnesota, that is interstate traffic and the entire trip is taken out of the jurisdiction of the making a crop after whipping the states and therefore the railroads can Turks, the Balkan states began to charge more than the legal fare in either state.

It is a perfectly lawful proposition for the railroads to charge more for a ticket from LaMoure to Minneapolis, than the combined legal rates from LaMoure to Fargo and from Moorhead to Minneapolis, but is it wise?

The railroads have been fighting of recent years to build up public sentiment, in their favor. They say that the public should be fair with them, and there is a growing tendency on They the part of the public to look more leniently on the railroad business. But how can they expect to keep on good terms with the public if they try to work a scheme like that?

It is the candid opinion of The Forum that the railroads will make more enemies by a little stunt like that, than they can win back by months of effort in a publicity educational campaign.

PEACE IN THE BALKANS.

Once more comes the news of peace in southeastern Europe, this time from Bucharest rather than from London. Bulgaria has been whipped and threatened into submission. What the concert of the powers did not do, Roumania has done. With the army of his neighbor at the gates of his capital and King Carol declaring that Sofia would be occupied today if peace was not already concluded, King Ferdinand was obliged to yield.

While the allies were warring with Turkey the world watched with admiration the march of "the conquering Bulgars". But when they began to Shih-Kai is a dictator rather than a fight over the division of the spoils they lost the sympathy of their admirers. With charges at her door, from which she has not cleared herself, of atrocities only worthy of the Turk, the world will not mourn Bulgaria's loss of the territory she tried to grab.

Americans also will be interested to see just what the powers may do to compel the Turks to evacuate Adrianople. They have informed the porto that the treaty of London must be observed. But if Turkey refuses to give up the city will the powers employ force or will Bulgaria have to conquer Adrianople all over again?

FARMERS THE GOAT.

Melville Davisson in The Saturday Evening Post comments as follows on a subject that may be of interest to North Dakota farmers:

It is difficult to grasp adequately ow unfairly the men who produce the food supplies of this country have been treated. An unjust tariff system has laid them under tribute for almost half a century. What they had to sell -meats and breadstuffs—they had to sell in the markets of the world, infree trade markets, for they produced them in excess of what was used in this country. No protective duty could help them. The prices they received were free trade prices fixed in free trade markets. But everything they bought, everything they enjoyed, everything they wore, everything they used they bought in a high-protective market. They bought at a price in excess of what they could have bought it in the market where they sold their in the market where they sold their excess meats and breadstuffs.

All that they purchased they purchased at a price so excessive that the accumulated excess has made the manufacturers rich beyond the power of the English language to express it; so rich that words like "multi-millionaire" had to be coined in order to express it. The very utensils that these press it. The very utensils that these men used for the purpose of producing their breadstuffs they had to buy at a price in excess of what the manufac-turers of them were willing to take in a foreign country after paying the costs of transportation. It was a great, backbreaking, piti-less tribute that these men paid for al-most fifty years. And in addition to this the law permitted transporation companies to charge them extortionate rates for carrying their products; and in addition to this the law permitted men who did not produce any of this meats and breadstuffs to corner it and hoard it and trade in it and force the producer to take the price they offered

And so exploited like that and op-pressed like that, these men had no heart to go on increasing the produc-tion of meats and breadstuffs. Their sons were discouraged and went away from the land, and so the production of the things we live on does not keep pace with the increase of the population or the development of other in-dustries. To appoint commissions, then, to inquire gravely into the causes of the high cost of living in the fact of these facts is—as the comedians say it—to create laughter!

The political party in power can re-move existing laws which have oppressed these men, and it can compe a just system of transportation and distribution, and it can remove the gamblers; that is to say, it can get the difficulties out of the way, and then the problem will adjust itself.

President Wilson's Ideals,

Montreal Star: It is the quintes sence of meanness to quote from President Wilson's academic essays on now to run a government, make a tariff or perform any other public 'chore," and then point out that he is not now living up to those lofty ideals. Of course he is not; but the fault is neither with him nor with the ideals. The fault clearly lies with the very human materials with which he is asked by the very human people of the United States to work. If had sent him ideal congressmen and ideal senators and ideal "lobbyists" to deal with, he would have given them, and an admiring world. beautiful object lesson in make one's graduation thesis fit in with the hard facts of life. It was a pretty romance while it lasted. By the mating of their fortunes and votes sugar and wool were to defeat all the schemes of the wicked democrats and live happily ever after. It was as pleasant as a fairy tale, but it did not come true. If sugar and wool part, nothing can be done to defeat the democratic tariff bill by democratic votes. The dream of the two Louisiana senators has vanished into thin air, and it is all Senator Walsh's

Wise Foreign Policy.

Springfield Republican: President Wilson's policy in regard to the recognition of new governments seem to strike a happy medium, asserting sound principle without committing the government to a position which may be found impracticable. It is quite proper that this republic should have a sympathy for government by the people, but it is not bound in every case to insist upon it or to withhold recognition from a government which is based on power rather than on popular suffrage. The government of the Chinese republic is a case in point. It may be that this is only nominally a republic, and that Yuan president; if the more democratic ideals for which Dr. Sun Yat - Sen could have been carried at once into effect when the rule of the Manchu dynasty was thrown off, American sympathy would have been warmer. But so abrupt a transition would perhaps not have been for the best interest of China; it is at any rate not to be demanded. The case is quite different with countries which have the revolution habit, and a certain coolness and deliberation is fully warranted to a government which has not yet had time to wash the blood off its hands; any other policy would be an incentive to insurrection.

Shakespeare in California.

Sacramento Union: The Los Angeles board of education, acting upon the advice of School Superin-tendent Francis, has excluded The Merchant of Venice from the schools. "I do not believe," says Francis, "that The Merchant of Venice correctly portrays the character of the Jew. There are many fine traits of Jewish character that are not brought out in Shakespeare's play." Why not exclude all of Shakespeare's plays? "Hamlet," for example, which the Francis type of mind would naturally consider as suggesting that all Danes are morbidly semi-insane; "Macbeth," which Mr. Francis might presume to imply that all Scotchmen are murderers.

NEW PIPE ORGAN

INSTRUMENT, WILL BE HEARD IN SERVICES NEXT SUNDAY, ELECTRIC ACTION THROUGH-OUT, WILL BE DEDICATED SOON.

During the past two weeks another pipe organ has been installed in Fargo, this one in St. Mark's English Lutheran church at a cost of beween $5,000 and $6,000. The makers o fthe instrument were the Hall Organ Co., New Haven, Ct., and the work of erection and finishing the organ was done by G. H. Thompson. The action of the organ is electric throughout, the only one in the state. For the first time the services at St. Mark's church will be embellish-ed with majestic pipe organ music next Sunday morning, when the instrument will be played by Mrs. W. G. Brown, but no elaborate programme will be attempted at that service. The Rev. W. S. There is no limit of combinations that can be produced on this organ, by the aid of the dif-ferent couplers. In place of the oldfashioned big bellows which always takes up considerable room in the old method of organ construction there are small reservoirs, one for each manual with springs to supply the pressure. In the basement of the church is a one-horsepower orgobio which supplies the wind to the organ and attached to this is a small generator which supplies the current for the action of the organ.

The Tone of the Organ. It was the privilege of the represensative of The Forum to hear a few selections played by local organists and all of the players expressed themselves in love with the instrument and the grandeur of the music it produces. The diapasons are very rich, the strings extremely fine and the flutes very soft and mellow. As a whole the organ is very rich in tone and well balanced, and of course played when the church is occupied with a congregation and in accompaniment with the splendidly trained choir of the church the instrument will be heard nearer. to its best advantage.

For a year or two it has been felt that the dividing of the forces of choral singers in Fargo is a mistake, that there is not room for two choral organizations in the city and friends of oratorio music and deep lovers of en-semble singing have made a move in the direction of harmonizing the two societies which existed last year—be-lieving that there is greater strength in numbers. An organization wholly independent of music schools or conservatories has been suggested and that to have a board of management made up of business men who may be more or less enthusiastic in the production of musical enterprises or en-tertainments in the line of musical festivals and whatever may be given here in Fargo in that line be presented under the auspices of the choral or-
