

The Scottish Rite Organ.

The organ being built for the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite Masons, by T. P. Sanborn, of this city, is approaching completion, and next week the work of putting it up in the new temple will begin. It is an organ of twenty-six stops, ten speaking stops in the swell and ten in the great organ. The remaining stops are mechanical—couplers, tremolo and pedal check. All are thorough stops, no partial stops, each going the full register. There are three combination stops—forte, piano and mezzo—the remainder swell pedal. It is an elegant piece of furniture, being finished in Queen Anne style, the case of cherry. Its entire height is thirteen feet, width twelve feet and depth eleven feet. If it had not been necessary to have consulted space it would have been at least thirty feet high, for appearance sake, which, however, has nothing to do with volume. Although lacking in height, it will, as it has been made especially to fit a space designed for it, be a magnificent piece of furniture, and every one who has seen it admires its style and finish. The new organ costs $2,700, and will be run by water mator.
