

Church Organ Rebuilt.

The pipe organ of the Allison M. E. church has been rebuilt and is now one of the good organs in town. The work was done by Mr. Haskell, of Philadelphia, the gentleman who built the fine organ in the First Presbyterian church here.

He thoroughly overhauled the instrument, tuned and revoiced a great many of the former reeds and added five additional sets. The tone of the instrument has been so improved that it does not sound like the same instrument.
