13. That the organ, when completed and installed, will in every event be and be deemed to be, and be treated as personal property; that the title and ownership thereof shall be and remain in the Manufacturer until the purchase price and any and all promissory notes given in respect thereof (together with all applicable interest thereon) have been fully paid, after which said organ shall become the property of the ~~Church~~ Church University.....; and until the completion of payment as aforesaid the organ shall be held by the ~~Church~~ Church University... and/or other owner or lessee of the premises in which the same is contained in trust for the use, benefit and security of the Manufacturer, free, clear and excluded from any lien, mortgage, pledge or other encumbrance of whatever nature, except such as shall be expressly subject and subordinate to the right, title and interest of the Manufacturer as herein expressed.

Dear Riley:

I had not reported before on the above organ. It resulted in a really successful job. John Hose and I talked some about it when he was in Jacksonville last January and he told me he was scaling this down very small to suit the little room. Please tell him he estimated that one just right. The Diapason with its Geigen quality and the "Krummhorn-Trompette" and also the Flute fell right into line. All who have played it have been impressed with what this small organ can do and how it fits into that small room. I hope we land the next practice organ, and also the large 3m which should come late this year or in 1957.

Sincerely,

Gus
