The new Schantz pipe organ at Camp Hill Presbyterian Church was designed to provide leadership for worship services. The variety of sounds of this pipe organ also make it a fine recital instrument capable of playing the wide range of organ literature. Founded in 1873, the Schantz Organ Company is the largest and oldest American pipe organ builder still under management of the founding family. Component parts of the pipe organ are constructed in various departments and are then assembled at the factory before the new organ is delivered.

The installation of this organ is the final stage of a major renovation and upgrade of the church's facilities, which has included the creation of a new entrance and Gathering Place, renovation of the church's sanctuary and Fellowship Hall, and the installation of a new elevator that reaches all levels of the church.

The new pipe organ was delivered to the church in two large trucks. The first truck arrived on April 14, 2008, and was greeted by about 30 church members who helped unload the truck. The second truck arrived a week later. Eight employees of Schantz spent two weeks installing the organ. Then the organ "rested" in the sanctuary for a week. The final stage of tonal finishing of the organ began on May 5 and was completed on May 28.
