

An inaugural organ recital by David D. Wood, organist of St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal Church, of Philadelphia, took place during the week in the First Presbyterian Church, Germantown, on the new organ built by C. S. Haskell. Mr. Wood was assisted by Irvin J. Morgan, organist of the First Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia.

The programme comprised ten selections from Bach, Mozart, Mørkel, Lemmens, Mendelssohn, Guilmant, Beethoven, Liszt and Rossini, and all executed with taste characteristic of such artists as Messrs. Wood and Morgan.
