

A fine large organ is already in course of construction, by Levi U. Stuart, of Houston street, New York, containing eleven hundred and thirty-eight pipes, twenty-eight stops, with two rows of keys, eighty-one in all. The organ will be placed in the front gallery, over the vestibule, at an expense of twenty-five hundred dollars.

The location of the church is exceedingly pleasant and eligible, and, when the structure is completed, will add another attraction to those now existing in this most delightful and desirable portion of our City.

The Rev. Mr. Thrall, who it is expected will occupy
